Subject: September 6 – 10, Science Team Meeting at UCLA

From: C. T. Russell

Date: April 29, 2016

While September may seem a long time away, it is never too early to make your hotel reservations in the area around UCLA. There are two hotels on the UCLA campus. The newest one is the UCLA Meyer and Renee Luskin Conference Center. While it is not open yet, it will be open well before the team meeting in September. The original UCLA hotel is the UCLA Guest House. It is closest to the Faculty Center and the IGPP where the meeting will be held. Other close hotels we recommend are the Hilgard House; the UCLA Tiverton House, The W Hotel (where Obama stays when he is visiting the Westside) and the Hotel Palomar;

UCLA Meyer and Renee Luskin Conference Center: Reservations can be made only through a contracted link which will be provided once we know the number of persons interested in staying here. 10 minute walk to the Conference venue. Rate $229/- (no tax). Cancellation policy to be determined.

UCLA Guest House: <http://www.guesthouse.ucla.edu/> 10 minute walk to the conference venue. Rate ~$199/- (no tax).

Hilgard House Hotel: <http://www.hilgardhouse.com/> 12 minute walk to the Conference venue: Rates from $172/-

UCLA Tiverton House: <http://tivertonhouse.ucla.edu/> 13 minute walk to the Conference venue. Rates from $159/-

The W Hotel: <http://www.wlosangeles.com/gallery> 12 minute walk to the Conference venue. Rates from $299/-

Hotel Palomar: <http://www.hotelpalomar-beverlyhills.com/index.html> 20 minute walk to the Conference venue. Rates starting at $243/-

Note that September 5th is Labor Day. The top level schedule for the meeting follows the Uppsala schedule: Splinter meetings on Tuesday September 6 and Saturday September 10 with plenary sessions on September 7 , 8, 9.
